Libya's Vision 2030 sets out a broader ambition to transform the country's natural resources into sustainable economic growth, infrastructure development and long-term national prosperity. At the heart of this vision is the development of the energy sector through increased production, modernisation, investment and new strategic partnerships, while expanding opportunities across the oil, gas, renewables, power and energy infrastructure.

The National Oil Corporation (NOC), under the leadership of Chairman Masoud Suleiman, is playing a central role in advancing this vision by strengthening Libya's energy capabilities, attracting international investment and expertise, developing infrastructure and unlocking the country's significant energy potential. With a focus on sustainable growth and stronger international partnerships, Libya is positioning its energy sector as a key driver of its economic development towards 2030.
